

Some Veterans Buried in Dundee Cemeteries

Oak Grove Cemetery

John H. King came to Monroe Township in 1827 from Livingston County, New York. He settled in sections 35 and 36 in the combined Summerfield and Dundee Townships east of the John Wadsworth claim on Petersburg Dundee Road which is now known as Dixon Road. He became supervisor four times and later deeded part of his property to be used as cemetery property to serve the combined townships of Dundee and Summerfield. Members of the King family were some of the first buried there.

Oak Grove Cemetery is located two miles south of the Village of Dundee on Dixon Road. It was known as Oakwood for years. A great number of the early settlers are buried there. Walter Comstock bought the first land patent in this area on October 8, 1822. He died in 1831 and was buried at Oak Grove with the other members of his family

He was one of the oldest Dundee residents and the last surviving member of the once large William Bell Post of the G.A.R. According to a special story to the Monroe Evening News, George W. Francisco died at his home on Monroe Street in Dundee. His father was a veteran of the War of 1812. His three older brothers, Freeman, Joe, and Moses joined the Union Army in 1861. George, then only 16, also enlisted to serve with Company I of the Eleventh Michigan Infantry. He served for three years and four months. During his first battle of Stone River, George was shot in the right leg and a bullet grazed his head, causing him to lose consciousness. As he lay on the ground, the regiment charged over him and when he regained consciousness, he picked up his gun and joined his comrades in forcing the enemy back across the river. The only time he was in the hospital during his time as a soldier was for a heart attack which he suffered one night while on guard duty. His brother, Moses died during an epidemic which was prevalent in Alabama. A second brother, Freeman who was shot through the abdomen was taken captive during this battle and confined in Libby prison for seven months before he was exchanged with a number of other prisoners.
